RFC ATTORNEY
CALLED "LIAR"
IN COMMITTEEMaine Representative
Charges are Under Official Probe

Washington, July 9.—(AP)—The first session of the house rules committee's investigation of lobbying for and against the utilities bill ended in disorder today after Representative Brewster (R-Maine) shouted "You're a liar" at Thomas Corcoran, RFC attorney, who was on the stand.

Corcoran had just testified that Brewster asked him if he thought it would be all right "if I just ducked back to the hotel and not vote" on the provisions for abolishing "unnecessary" holding companies.

Earlier, Brewster told the committee that Corcoran had threatened to stop construction of the Passamaquoddy, Maine, tire-harvesting project unless the representative voted with President Roosevelt on the utilities bill. Corcoran said that assertion was "baseless."

"Staggering Burden." Meanwhile, a declaration that the burden of administration of the utility bill as it passed the house would be "simply staggering" was made in a letter from Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the securities and exchange commission, read to the senate.

It was offered during debate on whether to agree with the house action in eliminating the provision desired by Roosevelt for mandatory elimination of holding companies considered "unnecessary."

The Kennedy letter was read by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) in charge of the bill in the senate, as it arose to reply to an attack made upon his own views by Senator Dieterich (D-Ill.), a foe of abolition.

Views Purely Personal. Kennedy emphasized that his views were entirely "personal."

The letter, sent in reply to a request from Wheeler for his views, declared the bill as it passed the senate with a definite provision for eliminating all but one holding company for each geographically integrated system could be administered with "reasonable efficiency."

"But the burden case upon us by the house bill," the chairman added, "is simply staggering."

GOODRICH PLEA

Detroit Girl Asks
for An Attorney

Detroit, July 9.—(AP)—Merton Ward Goodrich pleaded innocent to the murder of Lillian Gallagher at his arraignment today in recorder's court.

The plea obviously took the court and the crowd of spectators by surprise. A gasp went up as Goodrich, his knees shaking, told Judge Thomas M. Cotter, he pleaded innocent and that he wished the court to name an attorney to defend him.

Judge Cotter ordered that the former trap drummer, who has confessed slaying the 11-year-old girl, be given a routine examination. Goodrich was led out of the court room immediately.

Mrs. Goodrich was not brought into court with her husband. Goodrich who has said he was "anxious to get it over with," gave no explanation of his plea.

Charges Dismissed
Against Dr. Buswell

Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—Dr. J. Oliver Buswell today called the sudden end of his ecclesiastical trial on charges of being a Presbyterian rebel a victory which should "Awaken the rank and file of the church."

A seven member court ended the hearing last night "without prejudice to future action" after a day of preliminaries and with no evidence taken. The court ruled that the charges had not been presented according to church procedure.

"It was a victory for the constitutional and regular provision," Dr. Buswell said.

"It will have two results, first, that the rank and file of the church could awaken to the menace facing them for not going along with the dominant political machine. Second, that it should awaken them to the crisis in the church and rescue them from the bureaucracy which fastened upon it."

Question Suspect

Albuquerque, N. M., July 9.—(AP)—County officers at Aztec, in northwestern New Mexico, today were holding a man for questioning in connection with the unsolved disappearance in May of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorus and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, Illinois tourists.

Undersheriff J. T. Hulton of Aztec told local authorities by telephone the man answered the description of a man who was seen driving the Lorus car May 22, and said he admitted making a trip through Texas and New Mexico about the time of the disappearance.

ATTY. PIQUET

IN APPEARANCEHe Arrives in Court
20 Minutes After
Bond Forfeiture

Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—Attorney Louis Piquet, sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary for furnishing aid to the Dillinger gang, was $12,500 late to court today.

Due to appear and schedule an appeal bond, Piquet sauntered into Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court 20 minutes after the judge had ordered the lawyer's old bond of $12,500 forfeited $13,385. Piquet apologized, insisting he had made a mistake about the time. The judge indicated he would expunge the forfeiture if Piquet posted his appeal bond, and the stocky criminal lawyer hurried off to arrange it.

An order for Piquet's arrest, as a fugitive from justice, was issued when he failed to appear, and he was taken into technical custody on his arrival. Piquet said he was sure he could post the $10,000 set for his freedom pending the appeal.

PAID FOR PRAYERS

Omaha, Neb., July 9.—(AP)—The man who tried to buy his way into Heaven had better call at the police station for his $10. Petra Ruiz, 11 years old, told officers a young man gave her the currency and asked her to pray for him. Petra and her family told police, "we don't want that kind of money."

HOLDUP MAN KILLED

Chicago—Seeing a holdup taking place in a branch telephone office, Policeman Leo Mikell shot through the window and killed the robber, identified later through fingerprints as John Roberts, 23, a parolee from Pontiac reformatory.

Springfield, Ill. Jeweler Killed
From Ambush Last Night; Five Men
Held by Police for Questioning

Springfield, Ill., July 9.—(AP)—Five persons were in custody today as police investigated the ambush and murder of Jake Wexler, jeweler and pawnbroker.

Wexler who was described as having been connected with the operation of slot machines in Sangamon county, was riddled with shotgun slugs last night as he was walking home. Two automobiles drew up alongside him near a street intersection. Three volleys felled him.

Police, fearing the outbreak of a gambling war, raided a night club and took fifteen employees into cus-

HUNDREDS OF CHINESE LIKE
RATS IN TRAPFight for Lives as 10
Feet of Water Sweep
Over the City

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Changteh, Hunan Province China, July 9.—The people of this city clambered for life like rats tonight as a devastating flood engulfed Changteh and the surrounding country.

Intermittently working telegraphic service permits The Associated Press to inform the world of the disaster which is taking place here. Every dike protecting the city and the low lying farm lands adjacent to the flooding Yunan river and Tung Ting lake, with one exception, have collapsed.

Water Ten Feet Deep
One hundred thousand homes within Changteh are already under ten feet of water as this is written shortly before midnight and the flood is still rising.

The populace is trapped within the area like rats. The people are frantically clinging to anything above water, including floating debris.

Property within the city and for miles around, with all crops, have been obliterated. Fire is adding to the horrors.

Changteh's staunch and ancient walls are the only things protecting the city from being wiped off the map.

All areas outside the walls have long since been submerged, while the ancient city within the walls is helpless—waiting only to see what the future holds.

A handful of brave American missionaries struggled to give aid. The American Northern Presbyterian missionaries are attempting to dispense whatever relief is possible, but their efforts are merely a drop in this ocean of disaster.

Numerous buildings of this mission are among those already under 10 feet of water, but those remaining are being kept in use by the brave missionaries.

The attic of one mission residence, which still remains above water, is where the missionaries are attempting to live. They enter, and leave their tiny shelter by boat.

Dr. George Tootell, who is from Knoxville, Tenn., is valiantly striving to keep the mission hospital functioning. It, fortunately, is situated on higher ground than the majority of the buildings.

No Pestilence Yet
Thus far, no pestilence has broken out, but no one dares envisage what is coming when the waters begin to subside.

Miss Nettie De Jong, from Holland, (or Detroit), Mich., declined to leave the stricken city before the disaster reached its present proportions. She now is undertaking to assist refugees as much as possible as they pack into the inner walled city, where the water is not so deep.

Miss E. J. Bannon, a nurse whose home address is listed as of Medicine Hat, Alta., and Melbourne, Australia, narrowly escaped drowning as she tried to navigate a raft laden with 20 corpses along the edge of the city wall. A portion of the wall crumbled and the raft was capsized in the avalanche of water which poured through the gap.

TEACHERS' BILL VETOED

Springfield, Ill., July 9.—(AP)—Governor Horner today vetoed the Edwards certificate bill to increase the educational requirements for school teachers and officials.

LONG CALLS FDR
LIAR AND FAKERHuey Defies Indictment for Virulent Attack on President

New Orleans, July 9.—(AP)—A fresh blast against the New Deal administration by Senator Huey P. Long was centered today on his accusation that President Roosevelt is "a liar and a faker."

Riding the crest of another surge of legislation which gives him unprecedented control over the state of Louisiana, Long assailed the President last night with a personal denunciation unmatched in his previous attacks on the administration.

His accusation came during a radio speech in which he touched on the recently enacted old age pension bill.

"Let me tell you about this Roosevelt pension plan," the Senator said. "Under it there are 280,000 persons in Louisiana who would qualify, and Louisiana would get about $1,000,000 which would mean that the state's old age pensioners would get about $3.60 a year or a little less than one cent a day."

"That's what Franklin Delano Roosevelt sends you down here."

Huey Offers Proof
"Franklin Roosevelt is a liar and a faker. Now let them indict me for that and I'll prove him a liar."

Interspersed with the attack was another tirade against Long's political enemies and a review of the work of the recent legislative session at which the General Assembly broadened the Senator's control over the state to an almost unlimited degree.

Long's blast against the chief executive came during a discussion of old age pensions and was followed by sharp pokes at Roosevelt on his tax-the-rich and relief programs.

Explaining enactment of a state law making politicalization of Federal funds a misdemeanor punishable by mandatory jail sentence, Long said:

"Had Apple in Mouth"
"The President has declared against use of relief funds for political purposes and we decided to take him at his word. But I wouldn't believe him on oath."

Roosevelt put a half-baked apple in his mouth and said there's no politics in relief. There better not be in Louisiana or we'll fill these dagdum jails full of your henchmen."

He frequently referred to his share-the-wealth program and accused the President of "crabbing" it from him.

YOUTH STOLE GUN

A youth, whose name was not revealed, was apprehended Monday by Chief Deputy Gilbert Finch, and charged with stealing a .38-caliber gun from the farm of Bert Swarts near here. The youth, who said he was eighteen years old, was suspected when he gave an inconsistent and illogical story upon questioning regarding the missing weapon. On being questioned further he confessed the theft and took officers to a hayloft in the Swarts barn where he had concealed the gun. It was not decided whether charges would be preferred against the youth. He was released.

Young Team from
Dixon is Good

The Dixon Country Club golfers who will compete in the annual Lincoln Highway tournament at the Kishwaukee club at DeKalb tomorrow and Thursday have been selected: Rogers, Jr., Detweiler, Durkes, Henry, Em Rorer, Lazier, Don Raymond, Al Hoffman, L. G. Rorer and W. W. Dysart. Of the tournament the DeKalb Chronicle says:

"Tournament play will be against bogy and the manner in which the teams have improved in the past few years indicates that it will take some sub-bogy golf in order to crash through for honors. "Dixon with a young team that made the going extremely tough last year is being given credit for being the toughest nut of the bunch this year. Preempt, a newcomer to the list, is going to be a squad that will have to be watched closely."

UPSTATE NEW YORK COUNTS
FLOOD'S TOLL37 Dead; Fire Invades
Flood-Stricken Communities Today

Albany, N. Y., July 9.—(AP)—Fire invaded flood-stricken upstate New York today as receding waters left 37 dead, eight missing and property damage ranging around $10,000,000.

Five stores and two apartments in Walton, a village near Delhi, Delaware county seat, were destroyed in a $150,000 blaze that raged for several hours before being brought under control by two fire companies forced to plough through water-covered roads.

Meanwhile, firemen at Binghamton and Hornell were forced to use boats and stand in water knee deep to fight flames.

The Binghamton fire destroyed a store and restaurant in the flooded front street section, while at Hornell two explosions of tanks of a large gasoline storage plant gave firemen a battle.

New Floods Feared.
Although the sun greeted relief workers in Hornell, where 1,000 persons are temporarily homeless, rain was falling in some other sections of the devastated area, weather bureau officials feared a new rise in the rivers and creeks.

Representative Bert Lord, upstate New York Republican whose home district is in the flooded territory, asked the federal relief administration to see what could be done for the flood sufferers.

Fear of typhoid spread through Steuben county, where damage was estimated at $4,000,000.

37 Known Dead.
Receding flood waters left upstate New York today with 37 dead, seven missing, and property damage approximating $10,000,000.

More than 2,000 were temporarily homeless in a score of villages and cities, presenting a formidable relief problem to state and federal agencies.

Even before the cloudburst of Sunday night and Monday had ceased, the Red Cross had rushed relief workers into the area and Governor Herbert H. Lehman began coordinating state agencies, including the National Guard, to cope with the situation.

Troops were held in readiness at Hornell and Elmira, after reports of looting had been received.

Dozen Towns Suffered.
A dozen towns and cities near the Pennsylvania border within a 50-mile radius of Binghamton appeared to be the worst sufferers. Also seriously affected was the territory 60 miles or more north-westward, in the heart of the famous Finger Lakes region around Watkins Glen.

The story was the same throughout the flood region—ruined homes, wrecked communication lines and utilities, damaged highways and bridges, washed-out railroad tracks and unestimated crop and live stock losses.

At Hornell, where water, light and communications systems were wrecked by the rolling flood water, 1,000 refugees were being cared for in private homes and some victims spent the night sleeping in automobiles.

City officials considered establishing public stations for inoculation against disease.

Many Homes Wrecked.
Several hundred were temporarily homeless at Watkins Glen and city and county buildings were damaged by mud and water. Dozens of homes were wrecked, and the internationally known park there was so severely damaged it may have to be closed.

The Chango river still lapped at buildings in the lower section of

Appreciate Money

Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—Bernard Duban believes he's encountered a pair of robbers who really appreciate the value of money.

He told police that as two youthful outlaws prepared to depart from his store with $204 they had taken from him and a clerk, one of the pair dropped a dime. Halting their exit to the floor, pushed aside chairs and rolled up rugs and ignoring the danger of detection continued the hunt until they found the coin. Then, unconcerned, the robbers sauntered out the door. Duban reported.

BROOKLYN BANK
WINS ITS CASEJudge Manus Finds Deed in Bradshaw Case Indicated Fraud

Judge Albert H. Manus, in circuit court this morning handed down a decision in favor of the complainants, the Gehant Banking Co., against Max Bradshaw, and his mother May Bradshaw of Compton regarding a deed, the validity of which was first contested in 1932.

Judge Manus, without discussing the validity of the deed in his ruling, reviewed testimony which led to his decision, characterizing defense claims as "indefinite." He stated a study of the case revealed that a conveyance indicated fraud in the case and that it was up to the defendants to prove that the conveyance was valid and in good faith. Judge Manus characterized the testimony as "contradictory" nullifying the credence of the defense.

Objections Overruled
The court ordered objections of the defense regarding reports of proofs and financial standing of the defendants, be overruled, except reference to the form of the deed, which was amended.

The decision set aside the deed on the grounds the conveyance was made with intention to defraud. The findings of E. E. Wingert, special master appointed to the case were all sustained by the court.

Representing the complainants were Attorneys Clyde Smith and H. C. Warner, and the defendants, William H. Winn and F. M. Kaufman.

Straddled the Line

Savanna, Ill., July 9.—(AP)—The Rev. T. S. Cleworth straddled the issue—or rather the line—to marry two couples in a double service. They wanted to be married in a single ceremony, but had licenses issued in different counties. The minister took them to the county line, had one couple stand in Jo Daviess county and the other in Carroll county. Then, standing astride the line, he read the service.

Binghamton where nearly 500 persons were driven from their homes. Two hundred of the refugees were housed in a schoolhouse.

Six houses were carried away and the business district flooded in Trumansburg and vicinity where at least five persons, including three children, lost their lives. The children, two boys and a girl, were swept away as they slept in a tent on the banks of a creek near Perry.

New Anti-Fat Drug Believed Cause of Blindness of Dozen San Francisco
Women; Its Use is Frowned Upon

San Francisco, July 9.—(AP)—Research workers of Stanford University medical school here today were endeavoring to learn whether dimethylphenol, a newly-developed "anti-fat" drug, was responsible for the temporary blindness of 12 San Francisco Bay district women who have been stricken recently.

All of the women, whose names were not revealed, had taken the drug in an attempt to reduce. Dr. Loren Chandler, dean of the school, reported.

Dr. Chandler and Dr. Walter W. Boardman, who reported the cases to the Journal of the American Medical Association, said the blindness resulted from the formation of cataracts over the eyes, but it was not yet known whether the cataracts were caused by the drug or by malnutrition, unbalanced diet or other factors.

It was estimated 1,000,000 persons in the world, including about 100,000 American women, are using the new drug. Dr. Chandler urged that authorities "advise against its use for the present."

THREE YOUNG
KILLERS DIE
IN HOT CHAIREast St. Louis Youths
Executed at Chester
This Morning

Chester, Ill., July 9.—(AP)—Three East St. Louis youths, ranging in age from 19 to 25, died in the Southern Illinois Penitentiary electric chair today for the slaying of a 66-year-old street car motorman in an attempted robbery early this year.

With prayers on their lips John Krul, 21, Edward Balling, 19, and Van Buren Dedmon, 25, paid their debts to the state for the slaying of William C. Moss on February 22. The triple execution took 21 minutes.

Krul, the first to die, saw his two-weeks-old child for the first time a few hours before he was led from his cell to the execution chamber. Strapped into the chair at 12:11 A. M. he was pronounced dead three minutes later after four charges of electric current had been sent through his body.

Youngest Youth Broke
Five minutes later, Balling was assisted into the chamber. The youngest, he was the only one of the trio to break discernibly. He died at 12:33 A. M.

Dedmon, still limping from a leg wound suffered when Moss elected to shoot it out with the youthful group, was the last to be executed. His body was taken from the chair at 12:32 A. M.

Each of the three made brief last statements. Krul and Dedmon speaking calmly and with precision. Balling, whose mother failed to reach the prison in time to bid him good-bye, could not control his voice and his statement was inaudible at times.

"I want mother to know I went happy," he said. "Thankyou—everybody, warden and all—"

None Was Bitter
None expressed bitterness at his conviction or failure to obtain executive clemency. Up to the last minute, hope had been held that Gov. Henry Horner would commute their death sentences to life imprisonment.

Krul, whom three priests had accompanied on the walk from his cell to his death, said, "If I have ever done harm to anybody in this world, I wish they would forgive me. I know God will forgive me." Dedmon spoke somewhat longer than his companions. "I want the Lord to be merciful to me and I want him to pardon me for all my sins," he concluded.

Final Appeal Failed

The governor, who had granted a 10-day reprieve, declined to take further action after the state board of pardons and paroles held an eleven-hour hearing yesterday.

The records of the trio—Dedmon and Krul were ex-convicts—and the strong opposition of the trial judge, William Borders, mitigated against executive clemency.

In statements to police after their arrest, they admitted participation in a number of robberies before they halted Moss as he passed the mouth of an alley on his way home.

Victim Resisted
The elderly street car operator had twice been the victim of hold-up men. He was armed to prevent a third occurrence, which he had told fellow employees he would resist.

Backing up against a tree, he began shooting. In the return fire from the robbers, he was struck by four bullets and died before he could be rushed to a hospital.

Down the alley, police found Dedmon, wounded in the leg by Moss' fire. Krul and Balling were arrested within a few hours and all three made statements admitting participation in the attempt to rob Moss.

The men did not testify at their trial in Judge Borders' court last April, their attorneys relying on a plea for mercy.

Dixon Trapshooter
Leads All Rivals

A. E. Sheffield of Dixon led all 16-year trapshooters Sunday evening at the Dixon Airport by shattering 89 out of a possible 75 clay targets. Albert Ostrander of Harmon placed second with 44 out of 50, and Charles Duis of Dixon placed third with 42 out of 50.

At 12 pair of double targets, Dr. H. J. McCoy placed first with 19 out of 24. Bill Fischer of Dixon and Howard Biesecker of Franklin Grove tied for second with 17 out of 24.

FRISCH MEETS CRITICISM BY ALL-STAR FANS

Many Believe He Used Bad Judgment on Hurler

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
Cleveland, July 9.—(AP)—It comes only once a year and it's a great baseball show—this major league all star tournament—but the feeling today in National league quarters was that it's a much sadder policy to settle current arguments in the world series. The Nationals are not completely discouraged, nor have they the slightest idea of suggesting the abandonment of an event that has rapidly captured the country's popular fancy, as a spectacle, but the fact remains they have yet to win an all-star game, in three attempts. On the other hand they have been victorious over the American league in the last two world championships and look forward with considerable confidence now to the fall festivities when, in all likelihood, the New York Giants will strive to wipe out the sting of what happened yesterday right out before the gaze of 69,812 cash customers in the gigantic Cleveland stadium.

Americans Win Third.
The third straight triumph of the Americans, by a 4 to 1 score, was easily the most decisive scored since the All-Star idea was hatched in 1933 at Chicago. It was especially sweet for the forces of the junior league for the reason they were supposed to be somewhat below par, crippled by the loss of several outstanding stars of previous years and generally rated, in advance, as this year's underdogs. It was simultaneously a bitter pill for the Nationals, who found themselves outplayed, outplayed and outsmarted under circumstances that left plenty of room for the second-guessers to go into action.

Most of the argument in the wake of the game today centered about Manager Frank Frisch's judgment in starting his own southpaw, Bill Walker, instead of Hal Schumacher, sinker-ball ace of the N-Y York Giants. Walker was named for three runs, including a booming homer by Jimmie Fox in the first inning, so that the ball game was all over but the shouting by the time Schumacher went in to twirl a 4-inning trick. "Prince Hal" himself yielded the fourth run but he fanned five and gave an individual performance equally as brilliant as that of either Lefty Gomez or Mel Harder, who combined to pitch the Americans to a four-hit victory.

A Different Story?
The psychological effect of starting Schumacher instead of Walker, who was named as a replacement for Van Mungo the night before the game, might have altered the entire picture. On the other hand, with their big hitters mostly handcuffed anyway, it might have made no difference to the Nationals in the final outcome. Frisch himself had the best answer to his critics.
"It's sheer second-guessing to say I figured Hal was our ace but I had to take into account that he and Walker were the only two fresh pitchers available. All three of the others, Dizzy Dean, Paul Derringer and Carl Hubbell, pitched the day before. I couldn't ask Schumacher to pitch the whole game, could I, without getting into a fight with Bill Terry? So what, I gambled on Walker getting away to a good start and then figured on Schumacher to step in with a strong finish.
"I know it didn't work but the margin was pretty thin, at that. If Walker hadn't grooved that high curve for Fox in the first inning, if Medwick had played Hemsley's triple better in the second frame and if he had placed a hit or two in the clutches, it would have been a different story. I would try the same strategy all over again, under the same circumstances."
May Let Fans Decide.
Before the clans gather for the 1936 game, which probably will be awarded to Boston under the plan of alternating between east and west, the major leagues likely will give the All-Star selections back to the fans. Since it's mainly a spectacle for the sport's followers, club owners now favor letting the fans help pick the teams by nationwide vote. This was the original idea but the club managers picked this year's squad.
Funds for needy ball-players, administered by the two major leagues as well as a National Players' Association, were enriched to the extent of about $6,000 by proceeds of the game here, witnessed by one of the biggest crowds in baseball history. The gross receipts were $93,692.80, of which about $12,000 constituted taxes and $15,000 expenses.

ALL STAR STATISTICS.
Results of games: 1933, at Chicago, Americans 4, Nationals 2; with Vernon Gomez the winning pitcher, Bill Hallahan the loser; 1934, at New York, Americans 9, Nationals 7, with Mel Harder the winning pitcher, Van Mungo the loser; 1935, at Cleveland, Americans 4, Nationals 1, with Gomez the winning pitcher, Bill Walker the loser.
Paid attendance and receipts: 1933, 49,200 and $51,000; 1934, 48,363 and $52,982; 1935, 69,812 and $98,692.80. Totals for the three games, 168,375 and $197,674.80.
Batting leaders among three-year-men—Al Simmons, White Sox, 6 hits in 13 times at bat for .462; Charley Gehringer, Tigers, 4 hits in 9 times at bat for .444; Bill Terry, Giants, 4 hits in 10 times at bat for .400.
Players failing to hit safely in three games—L. Gehrig, Yankees, nine times at bat; Wally Berger, Braves, eight times at bat; Paul Waner, Pirates, and Gabby Hartnett, Cubs, three times at bat.
Home run hitters—First game, Babe Ruth, Yankees, and Frank Frisch, Cardinals; second game, Frisch and Joe Medwick, Cardinals; third game, Jimmy Fox, Athletics.
Most runs batted in—Early Averill, Indians, and Jimmy Fox, Athletics (two games) four each.
Strikeouts—By Vernon Gomez, Yankees, eight in three games; by Carl Hubbell, Giants, seven in two games.

ANYBODY THERE?
By Joseph Fort Newton
WALTER DE LA MARE has a lovely little poem called "The Listeners," the refrain of which is the question, "Is there anybody there?"

In other words, is our life in the hands of Someone very wise and very good, who is working out a plan in which man has a part. Or is life senseless, just accidental, so that nothing means anything?

At times life does seem to be senseless to us, having neither rhyme nor reason in it. Its blows blind us, shutting out all light. Its brutality blasts us, leaving us in a horror of desolation.

As a mood such a feeling is understandable, but as a philosophy it is fatal. The alternative is incredible, impossible, absurd. It asks for more credulity than is needed to believe all the myth.

If life is meaningless, the philosophy of Plato, the life of Jesus, the music of Beethoven, the poetry of Shakespeare, the discoveries of science, stars, atoms, and love are no more than sea-scum.

Nay more, the song of a lark, the sob of the violin, the glory of dawn, the pageantry of sunset, the love of home, the laughter of a child, the greatest lives and deeds, are just so much nonsense.

Take the eye of a butterfly. It is a compound lens, in which seventeen thousand tiny tubes are woven. If man could make so delicate an instrument, it would be a glass eye. He could not light the wee spark of life behind it, making it a living, seeing lens!

If, then, looking out into the mystery of life through the little spy-hole of my mind, there are traces of plan, meaning, artistry, and love, surely it is wise to believe in the light and not the dark.

The fact that we can read here a syllable, there a word, and yonder a sentence in the book of life, ought to save us from despair, even if the essay is too deep for us to understand all at once.

Yes, there is Someone here. "Closer is He than breathing, nearer than hands and feet," as a master poet sang. My business is to make contact with the one vast life that does not die!

Party for the Vernon Frys Sunday
Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fry were pleasantly surprised Sunday when a group of relatives and friends gathered at their home on Rock river, west of Sterling, in honor of their recent marriage. The guests brought well filled baskets and a sumptuous picnic dinner was served on the lawn. Afterwards the guests of honor were presented with beautiful and useful gifts for their home. Mr. and Mrs. George Beckingham of Dixon, were also remembered with a handsome table lamp in observance of their wedding anniversary.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gonneman and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Beckingham, Mrs. Arla Wylie and daughter, Mrs. Elsa Speelman and family, Paul Beckingham, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beckingham and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kime and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Curran and son James, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kilday, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tyler and sons Thomas and George, and Mrs. Will Beckingham and daughter Lona of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beckingham, A. W. Behrens, Raleigh Wilson, Mrs. Priscilla Remington, Mr. and Mrs. William Feldman, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hinds and son from Sterling and Rock Falls.

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
Mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in fat with knife. Mixing with knife add milk. Spread soft dough over top berries. Make 3 holes in top. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm or cold.

Delightful Party at Country Club
Last evening at the Dixon Country Club Miss Leone Kreim, daughter of the Frank Kreims of this city entertained a large number of young people with a dancing party, which proved to be a great success. Bob Sterling's orchestra furnished the music and it was pronounced good music.
At 10:30 a buffet supper was served.
The greater part of the guests were from Dixon with a number from Clinton and Sterling. Those from Clinton were Miss Jean Steche, Miss Miriam Barnes, and Miss Clarabelle Stanley, Bob Witley, Bill Brown and Charles Lathrop. Miss Ruth McLennan, John Hungate, Don Mitchell and Bud Terhune of Sterling were present.
It was a grand evening for dancing and the young folks danced till the early morning hours, every one having a delightful time.

Beautiful Wedding at S. Noble Home
At 8 o'clock Saturday evening, July 6th, a pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Noble of College avenue, Dixon, at which time their eldest daughter, Ethel Blanche, became the bride of John Alden Wolfe of Walnut, Ill.
The impressive ceremony was read by Rev. A. D. Shaffer of the Grace Evangelical church of Dixon, under a beautiful arch formed of roses and baby's breath in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The room was beautifully decorated in pink and white and was a bower of summer flowers in these shades, and ferns.
Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Wolfe of Walnut attended the couple, the former a cousin of the groom, and the latter, a sister of the bride.
The lovely bride was attractively gowned in white crepe and lace, with white accessories. She wore a bridal corsage of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue crepe and also wore a corsage of roses and sweet peas.
After the ceremony and congratulations, delicious refreshments were served to the guests.
Soon after Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left for Walnut where they will make their home on Jefferson St.
The charming young bride is a graduate of the Dixon high school of the class of 1934 and before her marriage was employed at the Brown Shoe Co.
The bridegroom, a graduate of the Walnut high school in 1933, is employed in Walnut.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe extend to them best wishes for a happily wedded life.

Bresson-Winter Wedding, Brooklyn
Saturday, June 29th, at the parsonage to St. Mary's Catholic church in West Brooklyn at 8:00 a. m. the wedding of Miss Sylvia Bresson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bresson of Compton and Otto Winter, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Winter of Mendota, was solemnized by Rev. Father Dickinson, the single ring ceremony being used.
The bride was beautifully attired in an ensemble of white crepe with matching accessories and she was attended by Miss Martha Winter, sister of the groom; Elliott Bresson, brother of the bride acting as best man for the groom. The maid of honor wore a gown of aquamarine blue crepe with white accessories. The bride wore a bride's corsage of red roses and white chrysanthemum, and the maid of honor wore pink tea roses and blue delphinium.
After the ceremony a three-course wedding breakfast was served the bridal party and immediate relatives at the home of the bride's parents, where the table was prettily decorated in roses, the color scheme of pink and white being carried out. A large four-tiered wedding cake served as the centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Winter left for a honeymoon trip through Iowa and on their return they will reside with the groom's parents, later moving to a farm north of West Brooklyn in Reynolds township.
For traveling the bride wore a blue ensemble, with matching accessories. For a number of years she has been one of Lee County's very successful teachers and is a charming young lady with a host of friends.
Mr. Winter is an industrious young man of sterling character and has been assisting his father with the farm work. Their many friends join in extending best wishes to them for happiness in their wedded life.

Gehant Reunion at Rochelle Sunday
The third annual Gehant reunion was held at Memorial Park, Rochelle, Illinois, July 7, 1935. About 250 were present. During the day a picnic, games and contests were enjoyed, and an orchestra provided music, after which a business meeting was held. Arthur Gehant acting as temporary chairman. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—Laurant Gehant
Vice President—Maude McCrea
Secretary-Treasurer—X. F. Gehant
Honorary president—Frank J. Gehant, Sr.
Honorary Vice President—Arthur F. Gehant
Program committee—Isadore Gehant, Albert Gehant, Arthur Bettner.
The time for the 1936 reunion is to be the first Sunday following the 4th of July, and is to be held at Memorial Park, Rochelle, Illinois.

Meeting of S. Dixon Community Club
The last meeting of the So. Dixon Community Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fischer, with a large attendance. It was decided at this meeting to hold a fish fry the following Sunday. At this meeting, also, a gift was presented to Mrs. Jessie Lautzenheiser, for selling the largest number of tickets to the fruit basket.
The remainder of the evening was spent in playing five hundred. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gottle received the favor for high honors; Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Fischer received second; and Mrs. Walter Ortiguesen and John Patersen received consolation favors.
A delicious luncheon was served, with a special treat by the hostess, after which all departed at a late hour.
The meeting for July 10th will be held on the afternoon of that day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Moore.

SENATOR COUZENS' WEALTH

Senator Couzens, who made a fortune in his association with Henry Ford and is reported to have put it largely into tax-free securities, says he would gladly give up a large part of his fortune if other wealthy men were made to do so also.

What, if anything, do "other wealthy men" have to do with his fortune? It is his. He made it in the days when people had private rights in private property and socialism had not taken Washington.

He resides in Detroit and the other wealthy men he probably has in mind are largely in New York. If his money is bothering him, he should get it out of hand and out of mind, without waiting on "other wealthy men." He can't take it with him.

He says he believes he would have been just as happy if the government had taken a large part of his wealth as it came rolling in to him in the Ford Motor company. What has the government to do with the fact that he would have been happier with less?

Chances are that he "would have been just as happy" if he had reared and educated his children and acquired a competency while continuing to serve in industry to a ripe age as many others do—and without the millions he talks about.

When the senator begins to confuse millions and happiness and talk in that vein, he needs to get a new slant on life.

Undoubtedly he means all right, but he seems to have been warped by his wealth and not to know what to do about it.

PROGRESS WITH YOUTH

By the end of this month, if all goes as expected, there will be approximately 600,000 young men in the famous Civilian Conservation Corps. The work of doubling the strength of the corps has been going forward rapidly, and an enrollment of 400,000 was recorded early in July.

New camps are being established in every state in the union. The War Department is building 1400 new sets of camp buildings, and tent colonies are being erected in many localities.

All in all, the work of enlarging the organization is going forward with the same quick efficiency that has characterized nearly all of the CCC operations. Here, it seems, is one fight-the-depression venture which has been a huge success. It has taken thousands of young men off the streets, enabled them to earn a living and build themselves up physically and mentally; and at the same time it has been doing a great deal of highly valuable work in the conservation of our natural resources of woodland, stream and field.

PROBLEM IN BOOKKEEPING

The great public works program, financed to the tune of $4,800,000,000, is slowly beginning to pick up speed. Within the next week or so administration officials will begin to transfer fully 1,200,000 workers from the existing FERA program to the new works set-up.

In this action there is a discouraging hint that the accomplishments of the new venture may be less spectacular than the country had been led to hope. The announced aim of the new program is to take 3,500,000 men off the relief rolls and put them to work. But if 1,200,000 of these men are to be put through that welcome transfer by the simple bookkeeping process of transferring their work projects from local relief control to the control of the new State Works Progress Administration, just where is the gain?

The country wants to see something done that will create brand-new jobs for people who have no jobs now. Shifting men and jobs from one federal department to another is not enough.

AN UNINSPIRING CAREER

A cablegram from Berlin reveals the fact that Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister for propaganda and public enlightenment, is displeased with the attitude displayed by students in the official German Press School.

Visiting the school recently, he publicly reproved the students for laziness, declaring that "the general level of education and abilities among you is far from satisfactory" and adding that he would not allow the German press "to decline to a low cultural level."

One sympathizes with Herr Goebbels' disappointment. Yet it is hard to see why future newspapermen should bother to do much studying in a nation like Germany. Where freedom of the press is dead, and the job of a newspaperman consists in taking government hand-outs and assiduously "yessing" the national administration—why should any student of journalism work hard to prepare himself for his career?

It would be difficult to discover, by geography, age, or income, a definite group anywhere in the country who could be depended upon to be dumb about styles.—Julia Coburn, magazine fashion editor.

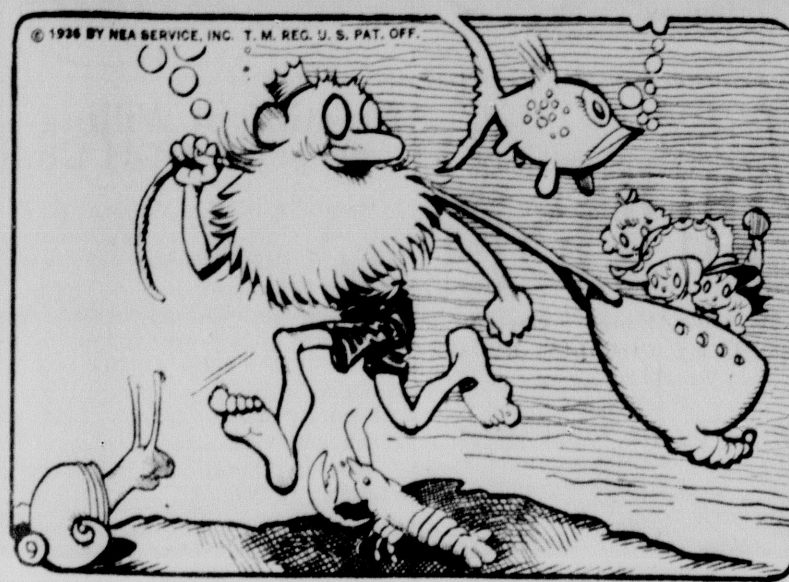

Elections are like prize fights. You can't win if you're going to hit your opponent with cream puffs. You've got to use dynamite.—J. E. Benoit, Danbury, Conn., official.

There is a happy medium for a woman, somewhere between "flat" and "fat." I think most screen stars have found that medium.—Dolores Del Rio.

THE TWYNTIES

Story by HAL COCHRAN

Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The little nymph seemed very strong. He rowed the shell boat right along and all the Times thought it great. "What fun," weee Copy cried.

"It seems that we've been everywhere, along the ground and in the air, but, best of all, right through the deep, blue sea I like to ride."

"Hey, where's the sea man?" Dotty said. "I thought I saw him just ahead, but now he's out of sight. I hope he won't leave us alone."

"Why, down here we would all get lost. We must find him at any cost." And then she cried, "Look out there, nymph! You almost hit a stone."

The nymph replied, "Oh, we're all right. I paddle on with all my might, and watch where I am going. You can trust yourselves to me."

"As to the sea man, he's right near. He will not leave you, never fear. No doubt, he's gone to check on how things are beneath the sea."

On, on they went for half an hour, and then the wee nymph lost his power. The shell slowed down and then it stopped. Said Scouty, "What is wrong?"

The nymph replied, "I've had enough. This rowing's made me pant and puff. I trust you will float along."

He quickly disappeared from sight, as frightened Dotty Twymite exclaimed, "Oh, please don't leave us. We don't feel at home down here."

A deep voice then replied, "Don't fret. You'll reach your destination yet." "Oh, it's the sea man," Windy said. The whole bunch gave a cheer.

"I have a weed rope," said the man. "And with it I am sure I can pull all you Twymites right along. Just help me tie it tight."

The rope was fastened to the shell, and everything worked out real well. The man exclaimed, "Hang on, now." Then he ran with all his might.

DAILY HEALTH

TRICHINOSIS: II

The disease trichinosis has certain classical symptoms, while not present in every case, by their combination suggest the diagnosis.

One of these symptoms is an acute gastro-intestinal disturbance. Usually within 24 to 48 hours after the eating of some infected pork produce, the victim suffers a marked disturbance in his digestive tract. He may suffer nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. In a day or two the patient usually complains of muscle pains and aches.

A unique and diagnostically important symptom is the swelling of the face and puffing of the eyes.

The history of the trichina worm is interesting. It enters the human body in infected meat. As this meat is digested in the stomach, the worms are liberated.

Within four days the young parasites enter the blood stream and are carried to all parts of the body. The worms tend to penetrate the skeletal muscles, where they develop further and become encysted, or enclosed in a sac.

The worms, however, do not lodge only in muscle tissue but gain entrance into any and all tissues of the body, including the heart muscle, the lungs, the liver, the brain.

We can understand from this why it is possible for trichinosis to produce so wide a variety of symptoms and why the disease may be mistaken for such a large variety of other conditions.

Once the worm has gained entrance into the tissues of the body, there is no way of expelling it. However, when the diagnosis is made promptly, radical catharsis may hasten the expulsion of the worms from the gastro-intestinal tract.

In view of the fact that trichinosis is a comparatively common disease, it is important that each of us guard against it.

The best available method for reducing the toxicity of this disease is to cook thoroughly all pork products, no matter what their form may be.

CHANGING WITH the WINDS

THE life of a revolutionist in South America is usually a struggle between plot and counter-plot and a shifting battle for survival. Few such fighters had more vacillating and dangerous careers than Gen. Fructoso Rivera of Uruguay.

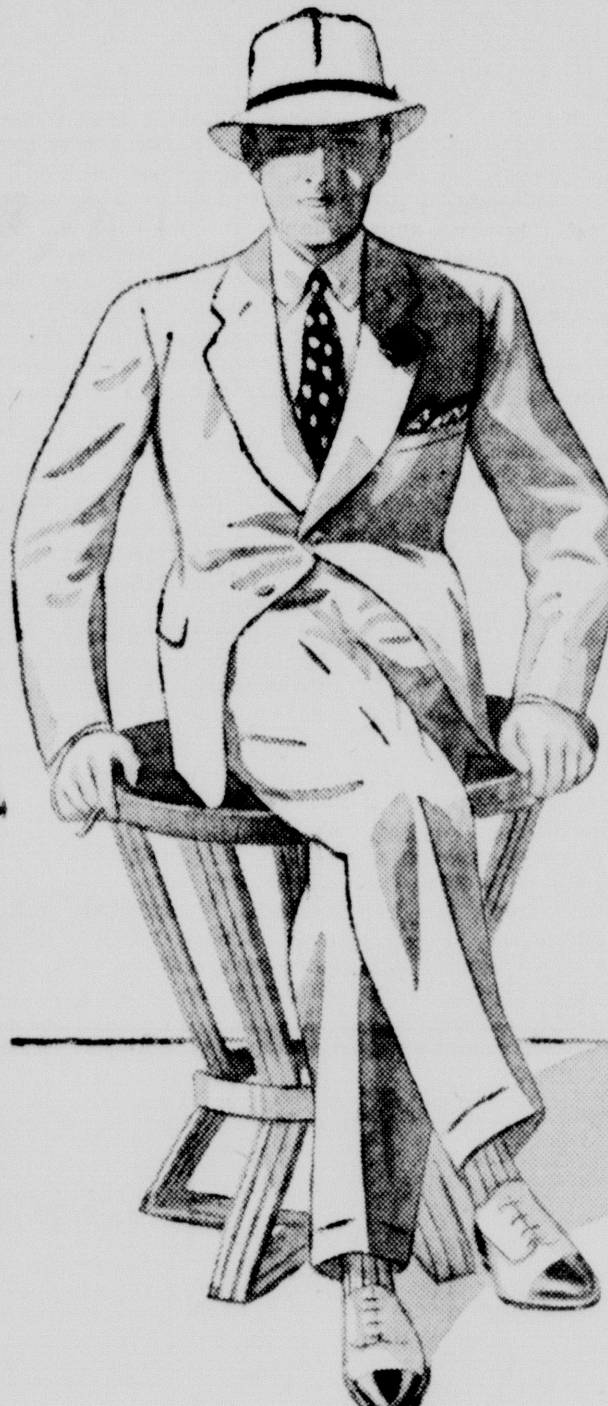

General Rivera first cast his revolutionary lot with Gen. Jose Artigas, first to attempt the liberation of Uruguay from Portugal. When Artigas met defeat, Rivera bounded over to the Portuguese side, but soon bounded back when another revolt was organized. This one was successful, but Rivera now faced opposition of his own colleagues, who feared and distrusted him.

He became first president of the new Uruguayan Republic, escaped an attempt on his life, fought off plotters, rose against his successor, was branded traitor, became president again, turned back an invading army, and finally, after several more changes of fortune, he fled to Europe.

The stamp shown here is one of three which Uruguay has issued for this remarkable fighter.

News of Interest to Community Farmers

LEE CROPS ARE GOOD, OPENING SURVEY SHOWS

Farmers Reporting From Immediate Vicinity

Farmers north, east, south and west of Dixon are responding wholeheartedly to a Telegraph survey of crop conditions in Lee county following the recent heavy rains which recently ended in a heat wave and then clear, cool weather.

The survey will continue the remainder of the summer and the first reports from townships adjacent to Dixon indicate a backward condition for the corn crop with generally good prospects for small grains.

On the J. P. Brechon farm in South Dixon, corn is not yet at the knee high stage having suffered considerably from excessive rainfall, lack of sunshine and weeds, but the past few sunny days have allowed it to grow considerably faster. In his small grain crops Mr. Brechon finds no rust. He has a very good stand of oats, but no wheat. He is not among the few Lee county farmers who are raising peas this year some of whom have been shipping them to the Sterling cannery at about $37 a ton. He has sixteen or seventeen cows which are being milked at present but does not produce enough to sell to the factory in Dixon or elsewhere at present.

Corn Not Knee High

From the Austin Powers farm in Palmyra township near Sterling comes the report that although corn is not knee high it is growing nicely since the recent heat wave and sunshine. More weather of this kind, claims Mr. Powers, will bring the crop to normal growth in plenty of time. He raises no wheat this year but his oats are in excellent condition. Soy beans planted to counteract a threatened chinch bug invasion have survived the excessive rainfall well. Chinch bugs are very rare at present, rain having killed most of them off. Rust has not yet proved a menace to Mr. Powers' crops.

In the vicinity of Franklin Grove, Herman Greenfield, who resides north of that city has knee high corn which is growing rapidly with every day of continued sunny weather. His oats are in good condition and no rust is prevalent in any of his crops. He does not raise wheat or peas. He sells his milk of which there is considerable quantity, to the Amboy market.

W. A. Schuler, who owns a farm near Prairieville reports the greatest difficulty with his pea crop this summer. He raises peas on a large scale, approximately 20 acres of peas which have been hard hit by the rain. Raising about a ton of peas to the acre in a normal year, Mr. Schuler sells his peas to the Sterling cannery at about $35 a ton. Most of the peas raised in Lee county are raised in Palmyra, and west South Dixon townships, and Harmon. Mr. Schuler reports poor corn. He expects a 30 or 40 per cent decrease from the original estimate for the corn crop as a result of weedy fields. Fears are expressed for the bean and hay crop which have should be cut sooner.

On the Sam Wells farm three miles north of Polo corn is knee high and has not suffered overly from excessive rainfall. Wells has a good stand of oats and prospects for a bumper small grain crop seem bright.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY

New York, July 9—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat increased 172,000; corn decreased 64,000; oats decreased 117,000; rye decreased 193,000; barley decreased 159,000.

Report of Ogle County Tester for June Given

By CARL LUND, Tester

The association average for the month of June was 858 lbs. of milk and 30.45 lbs. of B. F. with 334 cows on test from 17 herds. 31 of the 334 cows on test were dry. During the month five (5) unprofitable cows were sold to the market. Eighty-five cows each produced over 40 lbs. of B. F.

J. W. Heminway's herd of 12 P. B. H. led the association with an average production of 1078 lbs. of milk and 38.78 lbs. of B. F. on 2 time milking.

Ralph Thomas' herd of 12 P. B. H. averaged 1068 lbs. of milk and 37.61 lbs. of B. F. on 2 time milking.

Forrest Gillespie's herd of 8 P. B. H. averaged 1068 lbs. of milk and 37.61 lbs. of B. F. on 2 time milking.

Richard Magee's herd of 6 P. B. H. produced on an average of 1105 lbs. of milk and 35.63 lbs. of B. F. on 2 time milking.

T. J. Matychowick's 24 G. J. P. B. J. G. H. and P. B. H. averaged 924 lbs. of milk and 33.30 lbs. of B. F. on 2 time milking. One cow was dry.

UNITED ACTION TAUGHT BY AAA PROGRAM; CLAIM

Peoria Meeting Was Illustration Of This Trend

Participation of farmers in the crop adjustment and corn loan programs of the AAA has resulted in greater enthusiasm for and belief in organization, according to George E. Metzger, field secretary and director of organization for the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Evidence of this trend was indicated in the recent meeting at Peoria, when 16,000 Illinois farmers gathered to voice their sentiments on the AAA, said Mr. Metzger. Of late, sentiment in favor of continuing some sort of crop control has led many unorganized farmers to join the Farm Bureau because they now realize that united action is the key to equality and a fair share of the national income for agriculture.

"There is no question about it," Metzger continued, "Understanding of and participation in the adjustment programs have made farmers in general more organization-minded. Many farmers have begun to realize that it was the power of organization that made programs possible which would increase their income. The results of their participation in the programs have been so tangible and profitable that any fair-minded farmer cannot help but realize that it is only through co-operation with other farmers that his business can be made and kept profitable."

In borrowing the production control principle from industry farmers have also borrowed the idea of organization, realizing that through the power of group effort industry has been able to maintain prices and conditions favorable to it. Farmers realize that under an economic system in which tariffs, trade agreements and controlled production result in artificial price levels, agriculture must do likewise if it is to survive as a business.

A University of California professor estimates that during the last several years a million hives of colonies of honey bees in the United States have been lost due to poisons spread by airplanes and intended for destruction of harmful insects.

WET WEATHER HAMPERS FARM BASEBALL LOOP

Four Divisions Play More or Less Regularly However

Wet weather and late planting dealt a heavy blow to early spring Farm Bureau baseball enthusiasm, but recent weeks have seen a turn for the better, reports the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Four divisions have been playing more or less regularly since early in June and several more are expected to join as soon as the corn gets the best of the weeds or vice versa.

In the northeastern Illinois division, Lake county with three out of four games won, is leading the race for the local championship with DeKalb, McHenry and Boone trailing close behind. Boone county, which made a bad start, finally caught its stride and has successfully defeated Lake and DeKalb—the last a one-hit game—during the past two weeks.

Over in western Illinois, Adams county looks like a champion having defeated strong teams from McDonough and Henderson counties. Fulton county, also in this district, is a dark horse but reputedly has a powerful nine. In the eastern Illinois district, Will county, 1934 state champions, has defeated both LaSalle and Livingston and apparently is out after another state title.

Southern Illinois came into the State Farm Bureau League this year with a division comprising Edwards, Clay, Richland, Wabash, and White. Thus far only one game has been played. In that contest Clay took the measure of Edwards at Albion to the tune of 11 to 7.

Win or lose, the boys report having a lot of fun which gives them a welcome change once a week from the routine of plowing corn and making hay.

KEEP EYES ON ROAD, WARNING TO MOTORISTS

Let Riders View the Scenery; Drivers Watch Road

Brown's newly-painted barn, Smith's corn rows, that twelve acres of hemp that Black seeded this spring—they're all mighty interesting to look over as you drive to town, says the Safety Division of the Illinois Agricultural Association. But a craning neck may be a broken neck if you don't keep your eyes on the road.

Curiosity killed a cat, they say. Indifference and carelessness while driving has killed many more farmers.

What may be your first peek at another's field may be your last on earth.

It's fine to be interested in what's going on. It's broadening and gives you something to think about. Humans are built so they can do only about one thing well at a time. You can't drive well and do another's farming at the same time.

Be interested if you will, but let your prime interest be the road ahead. You'll live to think about what interests you. A split second indifference, crash, and your head and eyes may be of no further use to you.

Think it over. Look at it clearly! Then you'll live to see interesting things and think them over for many a day, no matter how much you drive.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER TO POULTRY RAISERS

When anyone offers advice on what breed of chickens to raise, it usually starts an argument.

But now that this year's chicks are all bought and many of them half-grown, perhaps there will be no hard feelings if I bring up the subject.

I have a great deal of respect for Leghorn chickens—in their place. But I don't think a general farm here in the Middle West is the place for them.

I am firmly convinced that heavy breed chickens offer you a better chance to make money.

They are usually referred to as "dual purpose" birds because they are valuable not only for the eggs they produce, but for their poultry meat, too.

Roosters Outlay Leghorns

There seems to be a notion that Leghorns will lay more eggs than heavy breed hens.

But at Storrs, Connecticut, they have kept records on the egg production of different breeds for years. And for the last ten years the Plymouth Rocks—a heavy breed—have outlaid the Leghorns.

I know a lot of farmers who have tried both Leghorns and heavy breeds who will say the same thing.

Leghorns Sold at a Loss

And when it comes to selling the chickens themselves, if you will stop and do a little figuring, I think this is what you will find:

In getting a Leghorn chicken up to 2 pounds, you use about 9 pounds of feed. Figure at 2 cents a pound, the feed costs you 18 cents. Add 8 cents for the cost of the chick and you will find the least amount for which you can produce a 2-pound Leghorn is 26 cents.

Right now you couldn't get more than 10 to 12 cents a pound for them. That means you wouldn't get over 24 cents for a bird that cost you 26 cents to produce.

Any way you look at it, that's a losing proposition.

Heavy Birds Sold at a Profit

A heavy breed bird, on the other hand, can be grown to 4 or 5 pounds.

It will take about 22 pounds of feed to grow it to 4 pounds. At 2 cents a pound, the feed would cost 44 cents. Then add 10 cents for the cost of the chick, since heavy breed chicks are more expensive than Leghorns. That makes 54 cents.

If you sell this chicken at 4 cents a pound (and I think you will be able to), that's 60 cents, which leaves you a profit.

The professors in your colleges, who can do fractions better than I, would figure it down to ounces of feed and tenths of a cent, but I am sure they would get the same answer.

A farmer in the Middle West has a better chance to make money if he raises a heavy breed of chickens.

And how much you make depends on how good a manager you are.

Sincerely Yours,

Frank Priebe

State Fair Will Be Best in Years Says Ag Director

The Illinois State Fair, considered the greatest livestock exposition and educational show of any state fair in the country, is planning to outdo all previous records this year when the Fair opens at Springfield Aug. 18, according to information received from Walter W. McLaughlin, state director of Agriculture by the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Mr. McLaughlin reports that Friday, August 23, again has been designated as Farm Bureau Day when the Illinois Agricultural Association will be host to Farm Bureau members and their friends in the 102 counties of the state. The IAA expects to have its headquarters in a huge tent north of the livestock pavilion as in previous years.

Congress Enacts $6,000,000 Bill to Protect Wildlife

Washington—Wildlife is coming into its own under the New Deal. President Roosevelt's farm relief-wildlife refuge program is to be vastly extended under terms of a bill just passed by Congress and approved by the President.

The bill appropriates $6,000,000 for refuges. It authorizes allocation by the President of additional money for the purpose from the four billion dollar PWA fund and enacts at one swoop nearly all new wildlife conservation legislation sought by sportsmen in the present session, according to the More Game Birds Foundation.

The blanket wildlife bill will enable the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey to extend its work on establishment of a great system of Federal refuges recommended last year by the President's Committee on Wildlife Restoration. A total of $8,500,000 was allocated in 1934 from submarginal land retirement and other funds. Over 600,000 acres of refuges sites were acquired or optioned in 20 states.

Most of the projects are to be used to aid restoration of the country's wild waterfowl. CCC and other relief workers have been assigned to the building of dams, dykes and other improvement work on the sites.

New laws enacted with passage of the bill follow:

The "Duck Stamp" law, requiring waterfowl hunters to purchase one dollar federal license stamps at postoffices, is amended. Henceforth, pasting of the stamps to state hunting licenses or special certificates will not be required. Stamp collectors or anyone may now purchase them.

To compensate communities for tax losses due to Federal refuge acquisitions, payments to school or road funds of 25 per cent of refuge revenues are authorized.

The Lacey Act, regulating interstate shipments of game and other wild life, is amended so as to insure more effective federal enforcement.

Wind Cave National Game Preserve in South Dakota is transferred to the Department of the Interior as a National Park.

A periodic check of the automobile tool kit eliminates a great deal of inconvenience later on.

Chinch Bug Menace Less Than Year Ago

Washington, July 9—(AP)—A report by the department of agriculture said that the chinch bug is no longer a threat to the 1935 corn crop in most of the areas where extensive damage was suffered last year.

However, the department said, situation in Iowa is still critical and there are enough bugs in Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, and Ohio to cause concern. The unusually wet spring was said to have stopped all danger of a general outbreak in Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Nebraska. In Iowa, the department said, warm weather during the coming weeks would "almost surely" start large numbers of bugs toward the corn fields.

Christopher Valentine Brown was born in Shelby, Ohio, January 27, 1848, and passed away at his home in Dixon, Illinois, July 6, 1935, having attained the age of 87 years, 5 months, 9 days.

He moved to Sublette, Illinois in 1869, and there opened a blacksmith shop, which he operated for 32 years. In 1871 he was united in marriage to Olive H. Gentry of Sublette, who passed away April 29, 1931, after observing their 60th wedding anniversary. To this union was born five children, two daughters, Jessie E. Fritz and Lena R. Miller, who preceded him in death, and Willie J. of Chicago, Illinois, Foy A. and C. Harris of Dixon, Illinois. In 1903 he moved with his family to Dixon, where he has since resided. In addition to three sons, he leaves two brothers, Henry of Kansas, Frank of Washington, four grandchildren and one great grandchild to mourn his passing.

Mr. Brown was very active until about a year ago, having always enjoyed good health.

Viscioni Will Battle Wade to Decide Right to Fight McReynolds

Features Seven Bout Card at Airport Friday Night

Walton Blasts Nelson 15 to 3 Twenty-one Hits

Prospects of an elimination bout between Louis Viscioni, Moline, and Aaron Wade, to decide which one shall battle Elwood McReynolds, two weeks hence, added flavor to an attractive seven bout boxing card billed for the Airport hangar, Friday night at 8:30 P. M.

Promoter Ed Hooker announced Monday the elimination bout had been arranged when both challengers claimed the right to fight McReynolds. Wade holds a decision over McReynolds in a bout between the two last year and was especially desirous of first chance at the Golden Gloves ace. McReynolds, although under doctor's orders at present not to fight this week will be in condition for the next card Hooker said.

Grooms New Man
Jack Beatty, Peoria manager is disappointed that his fighter in the 118 pound class, Andy Medina, was unable to defeat Vernon Stunkle of Steward in their last meeting. He is now grooming Clark Lewis, a new entrant, for competition against Stunkle.

In this week's matches, beside the feature Wade-Viscioni match, Harry Kobleman of Tampico will meet Billy LeHew of Moline, in the 160 pound class. Vernon Stunkle will clash with Lewis in the 118 pound division. Fred Hess of Dixon will meet Max Cayford of Savanna in the 165 pound group. Maurice Stunkle of Steward tangles with William Doty of Savanna in the 147 pound class. Eddie Staton of Moline will face Vic Fitzpatrick of Moline, 126 pound weight and Felchner Spotts of Dixon will mix gloves with Pete Voskis of Moline, weighing 130 pounds each.

Rumley, was second in the first two heats and then dropped out. Flower Watts, owned by Sam Wallace of Beloit, Wis., won the 2:16 trot in straight heats. The best time was 2:13 1/4. Worthy Belwin, owned by Kenneth Near of Amboy, was second.

PARKER ENTERS NET TOURNAMENT A BIG FAVORITE

Has Won It Twice In a Row; Seeded No. 1 Again

Spring Lake, N. J., July 9—(AP)—The annual invitation tournament of the Spring Lake bathing and tennis club opens today with Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville school star, favored to win for the third straight year.

Parker, fourth ranking singles performer in the country, is seeded No. 1. No other member of the first ten is entered.

J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, a veteran of many a tennis campaign, is expected to be Frankie's chief foe. Parker, who drew a first round bye, meets Armand L. Bruneau of Brooklyn in his first start. Hall's first opponent is J. W. of Shrewsbury.

KNACKS TAKE TEN INNINGS S-BALL GAME

Bordens Overcome by 1-0; Browns Drub Wires

The Knacks Leaders combining strategy with endurance outlasted the Bordens in a ten inning softball struggle, Monday night, and squeezed out of a tight spot to a 1-0 victory. The Buster Browns easily defended their share of first place by subduing the faulty Reynolds Wires 8 to 2 in the afterpiece.

The Knacks-Bordens game soon resolved itself into a pitcher's duel between Clark and Delts. The Knacks flinger struck out fifteen men, before Delts admitting defeat. Clark whiffed an equal number of batsmen. Twice Bordens threatened to go places. In the fourth they filled the bases and acquired two hits of the four awarded them by Clark. In the overtime ninth an error by first sacker C. Riley seemed the break that would defeat the Knacks as it allowed Ruth to reach base, and he was advanced by Fane's single. Delts was walked to fill the bases as part of a clever bit of Knacks strategy and with Metzen and Konkrite next up both relatively weak hitters, Clark proceeded to strike the both out and re-tire the side, thereby saving the Leaders from defeat and pushing the game into the tenth frame.

The Knacks tally was counted by Joe Miller who gained base on an error and scored on a bobbie by Konkrite at third.

BROWNS EASY VICTORS

The Buster Browns had little trouble maintaining their share of first place with the Clothiers, Monday night, by drubbing the Reynolds Wires ten 8 to 2.

Running up a commanding 4 to 0 lead in the first inning on only one hit the home run clouted by pitcher Fordham, the Browns held a safe lead all the way. The Wires didn't count until the third when George Carlson was scored on an error by Noakes at the third, and McDonald sneaked past Lange at the home plate for the second run. Guilty of many errors and badly executed and ill-judged plays, the Reynolds were also forced to view the collapse of Adolf Feldtang on the hill.

Accustomed to standing placidly in the field while their one "Big Bertha" Feldtang, successively strikes out opposing batters one after another, the Wiremen witnessed the spectacle of Adolf being belted all over the park. The Browns solved the German cannonball hurler's delivery for seven hard blows.

Deer Grove Is Victor Sunday Over Panthers

Deer Grove defeated the Dixon Panthers 10 to 9 at Reynolds park Sunday afternoon.

The Panther battery consisted of Reynolds and Wolford. Reynolds was relieved by Whitebread in the fourth inning after walking four opposing batsmen. Whitebread also had difficulty in finding the plate and was relieved by Zelecki in the seventh inning.

The Panthers came from behind in the ninth to tie the score as Reynolds singled to left scoring Zelecki with the tying run. The Oilers scored their winning run in the last of the ninth when Walls muffed an easy roller.

Sunday the Panthers will play the Nelson Cardinals at Reynolds field.

INDIAN'S WAR WHOOP FAILS TO WIN MATCH

Arouses Irish Foe's Anger; O'Mahoney Slaps Him Down

New York, July 9—(AP)—It's bad business, getting an Irishman's dander up. Chief Little Wolf of Trinidad, Colo., tried it last night with Danno O'Mahoney of Ireland, who claims the world heavyweight wrestling championship, and found himself bouncing on the ring floor like a rubber ball.

O'Mahoney, weighing 234, which was 24 pounds more than the Indian, was willing to make a nice little party out of it until the chief employed some tactics that might be termed foul. He gouged, pinched, slugged and scratched. He used his elbows and he howled blood-curdling howls. And he got the Irishman's dander up.

O'Mahoney, who took his title from Jim Londos in Boston last week, slipped out of one of the chief's best grips, lifted him high into the air and slammed him on the floor no less than a dozen times into the delight of the many Irish present.

Then O'Mahoney pinned his shoulders to the mat. The time was 28:23.

LEE CENTER NEWS

By Mrs. W. L. Frost.

Lee Center.—The Lee Center unit of the Home Bureau will hold another ice cream social outdoors near the Masonic building Friday evening, July 19. If the evening is rainy it will be held in the banquet hall.

A card from Mrs. Bertha Lyman of Peoria, received last week by Mrs. Minnie Eaton, stated that while she has been ill, the doctor says her heart is in good condition and that she will be able to be about again. This is good news to her many friends who have been greatly concerned about her welfare.

Mrs. Dick Miller and little daughter Marilyn and Patsy of Detroit, Mich., are visiting at the A. J. Carlson home. Mrs. Miller who has been quite ill since their arrival is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Charles Hartman and daughter of Plano called on Mrs. Mary M. Richer one day last week. The seventh annual Heinzerth reunion was held Sunday, June 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Heinzerth and a picnic dinner was enjoyed on the lawn at noon. In the afternoon the business was taken care of and an excellent program presented by members of the family. Ice cream was then served to all. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heinzerth and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard and family, Mendota; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Heinzerth, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Heinzerth and son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heinzerth, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Heinzerth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Theodora Heinzerth, Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and family, Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Gust Heinzerth and family, Harmon; Mr. and Mrs. George Heinzerth and family, Henry Wagner and daughter Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. William Heinzerth, Ashton; Mr. Adam Wetzel, Phyllis Wetzel, Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor, Rogene Dienseth, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haefner and family West Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer, Lee Center.

The next family reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Heinzerth at Harmon, Rev. G. A. Cox held communion service at the church Sunday morning. Four new members were taken into the church, Mrs. Esther Calstead from a Lutheran church in Chicago. Usual unified service next Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

SUN TANK

CHAPTER 1-A
"SATISFIED?" inquired an arrogant voice, and Jo whirled to see Babe Montgomery framed in the doorway. "Tubby said you were busy packing—and here I find you taking inventory of your charms. Are they all there?"

"I—I was just thinking," Jo said. Somehow, much as she disliked Babe, the girl had the power to disconcert her, to throw her off balance.

"Ooh, thinking?" said Babe. "Then you're a brain, too? What a catch for some summer beach Romeo! By the way, where're you going to spend your summer, Jo?"

"I hadn't thought about it," Jo lied. "I suppose I'll go home first."

"I'm tired of the seashore," said Babe in a bored tone. "I think this year I'd like the mountains—or perhaps one of those ranches you know, where they have handsome dude cowboys. What I'd really like to do is take a summer tour to Europe, but Dad's set his foot down on that. He hasn't forgotten the time I went to Mexico City!"

By the way, I saw Bret this afternoon."

"Did you?" Jo resumed her packing.

"Yes, I offered him a spin, but he had to go to the library. It's a shame how that man works! He studies like a mad person, and does odd jobs to boot. Is it true he's a life guard in the summer?"

"Is there anything wrong about being a life guard?" asked Jo acidly.

"Not in the least. Especially if there are pretty girls to save." Babe took a cigarette from her tiny bag, lit it carefully with her silver pocket torch. "What Bret Paul should do is marry money. It's a rotten shame for a man like that to be born poor."

"If I know Bret," Jo replied, trying to keep the anger from her voice, "he'd rather work for what he gets—even if it's only a little."

Babe shrugged. "I've heard there are people like that." She turned toward the door. "If I don't see you until next fall, pleasant vacation!"

"Thanks, Babe."

No sooner had Babe left the room than Tubby reappeared, her amiable face a study in mock astonishment. "Did I hear Miss Montgomery wishing you a pleasant vacation?"

"You did . . . and where's the trunk you were going to pack?"

"I decided it was too near dinner time to start packing. I'll just wait until tomorrow. I always feel better in the mornings, anyhow. You'd better get ready for dinner, Jo."

"I'm not having dinner here, Tubby."

HER roommate crossed the room, stood squarely in front of Jo. "Look here, Jo Darien, what's wrong with you? I've seen it all. You ought to be able to have it out with me."

"It isn't anything, really, Tubby. I—I'm a fool even to show it. Only it's been sort of a shock. You see, Dad's had some bad luck. I won't back next year. I've got to find a job—and right away, too."

The other regarded her for a scant moment, then took both Jo's hands in her own. "So that's it! She shook her head gravely. "I'm darned sorry, Jo. And I think I know just how you feel. It's not just finding a job, or leaving school maybe forever that worries you. It's taking a chance of losing Bret."

Jo met Tubby's gaze unflinchingly. "Suppose you're right?"

"I know cockeyed well I'm right! None of the boys pay any attention to me because I'm fat—but I know what it's all about just the same. I like being fat, and watching the stewy skinny girls get themselves into over men . . . Now are you coming down to dinner?"

Jo tried to smile. "No. I know it's silly, feeling this way, but I can't help it."

Tubby released her hands. "Of course you can't. And you'd be crazy to come down and eat with that cackling mob if you didn't feel like it."

"Oh, Tubby! . . ." Jo embraced those well padded shoulders hard. "Tubby, you're the grandest person I've ever known."

"Skip it," Tubby told her, blinking her eyes suspiciously. "Just hit

"Nothing," Bret said, "can happen in a year to make any difference."

"Oh, Tubby! . . ." Jo embraced those well padded shoulders hard. "Tubby, you're the grandest person I've ever known."

"Skip it," Tubby told her, blinking her eyes suspiciously. "Just hit out for the University Inn and eat your waffle alone. I'll tell the sisters you're having dinner with it."

Jo managed a laugh. "If you're insulting enough to mean Bret, he waits table at his fraternity house—but I'm going to meet him afterward."

When Jo was sure that all the girls were settled in the dining room she slipped into her polo coat, and made her way softly down the stairs. Emerging on the wide veranda, she tossed her collar around her throat—for despite the calendar's assurance of June, the air was keen now that the sun had slipped beyond the west edge of the big campus.

But Jo struck out briskly, taking wide, boyish strides. Since she was not particularly hungry she decided not to stop at the University Inn. Instead she would walk an hour or so before meeting Bret, and they could stop together for coffee.

THE campus was deserted at this hour. From somewhere Jo caught the faint sound of singing. She paused a moment in the summer moonshadows of the big Gothic library and listened. The song was coming from her own sorority house . . . "and though we part, we'll come together again . . ."

Hurriedly Jo pressed on. Past the library, beyond the low engineering laboratory where Bret spent most of his hours, clear down to the president's house at the very tip of the campus. Then she doubled back, walking even faster now for she had come farther than she planned, and Bret would be waiting for her on the steps of the library.

HE saw her coming up the path, and dashed from the shadows of the library steps to meet her, moving swiftly and easily with the grace of the natural athlete. He wore his usual campus costume of sweater and cords, no hat; but Jo reflected, he looked nicer this way than did most men in their dinner jackets.

"Hello, Jo darling!" He peered down at her in the darkness. "Anything wrong? You sounded upset over the telephone."

Jo shook her head. "It isn't anything, Bret. Only—you know how we'd planned I would spend a week at Placid Beach where you're a summer job?"

"Don't tell me you can't."

"I'm afraid that it, Bret."

His voice, usually so light and boyish, was filled with dismay. "You mean I won't see you until next fall?"

"If you see me then, I have to find a job, Bret. I'm hoping I can find something here in the city. But if I can't find it here then I'll just have to go where there is a job."

His arm tightened around her waist. "Something wrong at home?"

"It's just that Dad and Mother aren't exactly rich, and it's mostly up to me now."

"Gosh, darling . . . that's tough."

At Bret's lugubrious tone Jo couldn't restrain a laugh. "You seem to thrive under similar circumstances, Bret. Any reason why I shouldn't?"

"But you're a woman!"

"Heavens! Don't tell me you're old-fashioned enough to believe a woman shouldn't work!"

He turned her toward him. "You shouldn't. And if only I were through the university and we could—"

"But we can't," Jo said. And then she added, "At least, not now."

"But in another year I'll graduate, and old Prof Keagles will get me in somewhere. Then we'll be married." He looked down at her fiercely. "Nothing can happen in a year to make any difference between us!"

Jo couldn't reply at once, because just then he bent down swiftly and kissed her, hard. And even if he hadn't kissed her she would have had no answer to his question. What could happen in a year, out beyond the campus? It wasn't a thing to think about now, this problem of what they should do and plan. Something bigger than either of them was planning for them. Tomorrow she had to start hunting a job, and Bret had to start preparations to go to Placid Beach so he'd have enough money to finish his final year at the university.
